

The AGS Council Fellowship, 2017

The AGS Council Fellowship is now accepting applications. The councilors of the American Geographical Society created this fellowship to support graduate student scholarship. The fellowship is open to all student members of the American Geographical Society. Each fellowship is worth $1,500 and will be awarded in the spring. In the spring of 2017, four fellowships are awarded.

Applications for the award must be received in the AGS office by November 1, 2016. Digital submissions are preferred. To be considered an applicant must be a current member of the American Geographical Society and a graduate student.

The AGS Council Fellowships program will consider proposals concerned with any subfield of geography. The program encourages, but does not require, a fieldwork component.

Proposals should contain the following components:

- (1) A cover page containing the project name, applicant's name, position, affiliation, telephone number, postal address, and email address (1 page maximum);
- (2) A narrative that outlines the proposed research, specifies the reasons for doing the research by placing it in the context of published work, and describes how results will be disseminated (3 page maximum);
- (3) A bibliography, containing only those items cited in the narrative (1 page maximum);
- (4) An abbreviated curriculum vitae emphasizing factors that illustrate the applicant's competence/experience in the proposed area of research (2 page maximum);
- (5) A budget (maximum $1,500) itemizing expenses, with brief justification for each expense category (1 page maximum);

Technical specifications: one-inch margins, 12 point type (Calibri, Courier, or Times New Roman preferred), single or 1.5 line spacing with indented paragraphs; pages numbered consecutively beginning with title page); final copy submitted electronically in MS Word or PDF format. Page limits and technical specifications should be adhered to closely.

Upon completion of the research, fellowship recipients are strongly encouraged to submit an article based upon their research to one of the AGS publications such as the Geographical Review or FOCUS on Geography. The AGS Council Fellowship recipient will be announced in March 2017.
